

BURST-MODE activated

THE POINT OF VIEW

Read the following text and find the P.O.V. of this short paragraph.
Justify your answer with 2 evidence of text.

Once upon a time, in a far far away land existed a clumsy young woman known as Macy-Clamsy. She had beautiful long hair unlike any other inhabitants in the kingdom. She lived in a small wooden cottage with her taller and friendlier sister, Frandie. As for the firstborn, she had the most precious smile in all the land. People would always talk about the infamous them and envied their beauty.

EVIDENCE #1

EVIDENCE #2

THE CHARACTER TRAIT

After reading the paragraph, find one character trait to describe the character. Use evidence of the text to justify your answer.

Emilie doesn't want to share her markers for the art project, even though everyone else has shared theirs with her.

Emilie is

I can tell because

When the teacher looks in her direction, Fanie begins tapping her fingers on her desk, and after only a few seconds calls out, "What? Why are you looking at me? I didn't do anything!"

Fanie is

I can tell because

THE SETTING

After reading the paragraph, find the setting of the story. Use 2 evidence of text to justify your answer.

Once upon a time, in a far far away land existed a clumsy young woman known as Macy-Clamsy. She had beautiful long hair unlike any other inhabitants in the kingdom. She lived in a small wooden cottage with her taller and friendlier sister, Frandie. As for the firstborn, she had the most precious smile in all the land. People would always talk about the infamous Rupage sisters and envied their beauty. Everyday as requested by their parents, they would take care of the family garden. But of course, the two sisters would always fight for the most stupid reasons. Frandie would talk to the plants.

“Quit talking to them, Frandie! You know our tomatoes hate it when you go on about your stories!” sighed Macy-Clamsy.

“I have no other choice. You step on them all the time,” answered Frandie.

	The text says	The text says	Conclusion
WHEN			The story takes place
WHERE			The story takes place

THE DIALOGUE CHALLENGE

First, read the text below. Next, copy this text on a new page. Then, add the correct dialogue punctuation where needed. Finally, make sure to skip a line when there is a dialogue.

At that moment, Macy-Clamsy stopped listening to her annoying sister and noticed something strange in the enchanted forest. Her heartbeat increased quickly. The valiant girl decided to investigate the situation. Slowly, but heroically, she approached the moving bush. Macy-Clamsy stuttered whoever you are, show yourself! Suddenly, a wicked witch came out of her hiding spot. You must cut your hair or I'll bewitch you she threatened. Macy-Clamsy immediately refused. That was when the evil witch grabbed Macy-Clamsy. Frandie heard her cry for help and ran to the forest. Leave her alone warned Frandie. As soon as Frandie saw the witch would not give Macy-Clamsy up, she proposed her with a deal.

